

During your internship at Boerengroep, you can choose to work together with other organisations as well. Some examples are:

* Toekomstboeren / Future Farmers Movement (FFM). With Toekomstboeren or FFM you can conduct interviews with young farmers in Europe. Can you discover innovative agroecological practices? Which challenges are young farmers in Europe facing nowadays and what are possible solutions? On their website you can find several stories.

* Future Farmers in the Spotlight. Are you more into video's? Then this is the organisation for you! Future Farmers Joris and Juliane have been traveling across Europe to document stories of young farmers as an inspiration for young people (you can find their video's at the website). Since then, other people have been inspired and started making their video's as well. Would you like to visit young farmers, or an innovative farming project or eco-village to document? Join us!

* Otherwise. E.g. join in the grassroot science series!

* RUW E.g. join in the grassroot science series!

* UCAS \(United Community of African Students\) The UCAS is an embodiment of African scholars and professionals in the Wageningen University committed to encouraging research and scholarly dialogue to promote food sovereignty in Africa. The internship with Boerengroep in cooperation with UCAS will provide the intern with the possibility to set up events around the topic of food production, food sovereignty and challenges of farmers in Africa. A possibility could be to set up a weekly event which offers a place to share and discuss the above mentioned topics.

* Aarde Boer Consument. Connecting farmers with consumers.
